

Planning Guide - Comics Minor (COMC)

Offered by the School of Critical and Creative Studies

Available to all students

Comics, as an area of study is, at its core, the study of narration through images in sequence, typically but not always in combination with words.

Fundamentally interdisciplinary, it has many points of contact with Animation, Film, Print, Media Art, Popular Culture Studies and English but is clearly distinct from all of these areas. It is a form, the content of which can vary widely across historical eras and cultures and which, in recent years, has seen applications in fields as diverse as journalism, law, medicine, and archaeology.

Students must complete six of the following course offerings, totaling 18 credits.

- Two courses from List A* - 2 x 3 credits (6 credits total)
- One course from List A* or Box B** - 3 credits
- One course from List B** - 3 credits
- ENGL.222 Comics History or ENGL.202 Survey of Manga in Translation – 3 credits
- ENGL 333 The Graphic Novel – 3 credits
